Brisk Buying Appears

Leading bankers reported that ... buying appeared in the bond market. The buying they said presented the appearance of a large number of small investment ... however bulked ... in their total. Speculative buying they said had not appeared at least as yet in any great volume nor had there been any evidences of strong banking support although rumors were current that ... had been placed under the market for bank buying account.

Gains of $10 to more than $80 per bond of $1,000 par value were frequent among railroad bonds particularly those which had been subjected to heaviest pressure in recent trading sessions. Among the active rail liens were New York Central 4s which raced up $85 to above $600. Erie first prior lien 4s up $40. Great Northern 7s up $35 and Chicago & Northwestern 4s ... were up around $40.

The stock market rocketed along as rapidly as the bond market. Buyers found it difficult to get orders executed near yesterday's closing levels and prices ran up $1 to $5 a share for many leaders. As the rally gained momentum large buying orders appeared.

This suggested a bear retreat.

Stanislaus Hauser Makes Second Start on 4,300-Mile Flight.

Wife Watches Take-Off from Bennett Field; Follows in Escort Plane.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK June 3—Stanislaus Hauser of Newark N J took off for Warsaw Poland from Floyd Bennett field today at 8 46 a m. He hoped to make the flight non stop.

It was Hauser's second start on the projected solo flight to the country where he was born. Last Saturday he took off but was forced back after several hours by unfavorable weather.

He was followed into the air today by another plane in which his pretty young wife rode as a passenger. She intended to escort Hauser on the first few miles of his journey.

Uses Rebuilt Plane

In the second plane was also Rev Paul Knappek a Newark priest. Hauser's plane is the old rebuilt Bellanca monoplane Santa Rosa Maria which was originally built for a Chicago syndicate which planned an ocean flight which never materialized.

Although Hauser's destination was Warsaw he said before leaving that if conditions necessitated he might make a stop at London or Paris. He planned to follow a course slightly to the south of the steamer lanes.

Hauser lifted his plane into the air after running 3,500 feet down the concrete runway passing about 30 feet over a small crowd assembled to see him off. As he gained altitude he turned the plane around and headed eastward.

A navy plane also accompanied him as an escort.

He carried 50 letters some of which he planned to drop over the Croydon airport near London and if conditions were favorable he hoped to fly over Le Bourget Paris to drop some.

His plane carried 525 gallons of gasoline and he took along four chicken sandwiches two ham sandwiches a gallon of coffee and a gallon of water.

GROCER FIRES AT BANDITS

Columbia Street Store Manager Shoots as Robbers Flee After Holdup

SAYS BULLET HITS CAR

Place Is Looted for Fourth Time in Two Years, Men Escape.

Two bandits one armed with a revolver held up the Kroger grocery store on Columbia street shortly after 8 a m today and escaped with $26 after A C Stover manager of the store fired one shot after their fleeing car.

The holdup was the fourth since Stover became manager about two years ago and the third since last fall.

Stover said he was alone in the store and was working at the vegetable stand in the front of the room when one of the men entered the store and drew a revolver. The robber commanded Stover to fold his arms and walk to the rear of the store.

As he reached the rear of the store Stover said he turned in time to see the second man enter. With the curt demand that he stand still one bandit kept him covered with the gun while the other ransacked the cash register. Scooping the money into his pocket the second bandit left the store and entered an automobile which had been parked in front of a house just west of the store. The first bandit remained in the store with the revolver on Stover until after the engine of the car had been started when he turned and ran for the machine.

As soon as he had left the store Stover said he obtained a revolver and ran into the street firing one shot at the machine as the bandits headed west on Columbia. The bullet struck the machine he said but the gun jammed on the second shot.

One of the men was described as being about 35 years of age and weighing about 150 pounds and the other about 30 years of age and weighing about 155 pounds.

GARNER RELIEF BILL IS GIVEN APPROVAL

Speaker's Program Gets Committee's O K, To Go Before House Tuesday

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON June 3—The house ways and means committee today favorably reported the $2,300,000,000 Garner relief program.

Immediately thereafter the Democratic leadership called the party members to caucus at 4 p m to consider what action to take on the measure.

Speaker Garner said he planned to bring the measure up for consideration in the house Tuesday provided the Democratics caucus approves.

Garner said the fact that the senate revenue bill included a one cent a gallon tax on gasoline would not in his opinion have any effect on the one-quarter of a cent a gallon his relief measure proposes.

It proposes simply a separate sinking fund to pay for the things it would authorize. I don't see any connection between the two taxes.

MOVE TO SPEED GAS RATE ADJUSTMENT

Solicitors of Seven Cities Interested Hold Meeting in Columbus.

Seven city solicitors including Carter M Patton of Marion took steps yesterday in a meeting in Columbus to speed up action in the seven year rate fight of nearly 30 Ohio communities with the Ohio Fuel Gas Co.

With the valuation of the company's property for rate making purposes finally determined by the state utilities commission the solicitors hope to obtain from the commission in the near future the new schedules of rates based on the valuations.

The solicitors organized by naming Wesley L Grills solicitor of Lorain as chairman. He appointed a committee composed of Charles F Schaber of Bucyrus, Chance DeWald of Crestline and himself to study the case in behalf of the municipalities and to recommend to the solicitors of communities interested in the fight what the next step in the case should be.

Recommendations of this committee will be given at the meeting of solicitors in the near future. Athens, Ashland, Bellvue, Crestline, Bucyrus, Marion and Lorain were represented in yesterday's meeting held in the office of Thomas J Herbert attorney for the state utilities commission who also was present.

If the commission should fix the rate it would replace the existing rate here and those in other municipalities. The present rates have been collected under bond by the company during the pendency of the suit, Solicitor Patton explained.

Nudism Invades Quiet Lair of Rip Van Winkle

By The Associated Press

CAMP OLYMPIA N Y June 3—Nudism has come to the foothills of the Catskills where old Rip Van Winkle took his peaceful 20 year siesta.

Here on a 400-acre estate nine miles west of the Hudson river at Highland N Y men and women and children are sun bathing swimming fishing and playing.

The camp designed to accommodate 400 was opened a few weeks ago.

The chief playground for the nudists is a large lake which abounds in fish. The lake and the major portion of the estate is secluded and the nudists fear no trouble with the law since outsiders would be forced to trespass to enter the estate.

While the league makes no secret of the camp neighbors mostly farmers have not learned of its character. The owner of the property who has leased it on a cooperative basis is not himself a nudist.

For the most part the guests have been professional people.

The estate once a model farm developed by a wealthy man as a hobby has many buildings the best of which is a $10,000 lodge built on a cove in the lake and surrounded by willows and oaks.

Sent roaring out of their banks by a half foot of rain the waters of the Canadian river and Lightning creek surged over a wide area in the southern part of the city.

Water poured through the business district flooding basements and routed families living in camps for the destitute.

The body of a 14 year old girl was taken from Lightning creek at Southeast 23rd street. J D Meade former deputy sheriff reported that the body of a woman about 45 years old was taken from a tree on South 21st street and that the body of another woman about 40 was recovered at South 25th street and Santa Fe.

Boy's Body Found

The body of a five year old boy was recovered from five feet of water in the 100 block on Southeast 23rd street.

A man on horseback who attempted to cross deep water near the Taylor school for boys where 65 hungry youths were marooned upstairs was reported drowned.

The backing up of flood waters caused a shutdown on nearly every well in the north end of Oklahoma City oil field as well as pipeline and gas compressor stations.

L L Lates a South Side resident said he saw a man clinging to the top of a floating house go down when the house collided with another. There was an unverified report of another woman's body on a railway trestle which could not be reached and a woman and child were reported drowned in Melrose park in the far south part of town.

Hours of darkness in the southern suburb of Capitol hill and the failure of 7,000 telephones and 60 toll lines added to the terrors of families struggling to leave their flooded homes. Some looting was reported.

Scores in Hospitals

Scores of persons were in hospitals receiving treatment for exposure. A number were reported missing and hundreds were receiving food and attention in hastily arranged emergency shelters.

Half a hundred national guardsmen were called into duty by Lieutenant Governor Robert Burns.

JOHN M'GRAW QUITS AS GIANTS' LEADER

Ill Health and Team's Slump Given as Reason; Bill Terry Gets Post.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK June 3—John McGraw today announced his resignation as manager of the New York Giants after 30 years of leadership because of ill health. He will be succeeded by Bill Terry the club's first base man.

John McGraw

McGraw will remain as vice president and stockholder.

The 59 year old pilot of the Giants has been in ill health for some time frequently being unable to actively manage the team. This plus the slump which has kept the Giants around last place influenced McGraw to relinquish control.

Under McGraw's management the Giants won 10 National league pennants four of them in a row 1921-1924 and three World series.

In his playing days McGraw was a brilliant third baseman hard hitter and clever base runner and afterwards the most successful manager in the history of the major leagues. He has been one of the outstanding figures in America's national game for nearly four decades.

Until July 1902 John McGraw, although star of the first magnitude among baseball players was merely one of hundreds of young men who were attracting attention on the diamond. In that month he became manager of the Giants and the next season began his climb up the ladder of baseball fame.

Manager McGraw's connection with the National league began in the season of 1892 when Baltimore was made a member of the 12 club National league circuit. Under the leadership of Ned Hanlon himself

COUNTY OUTLINES HIGHWAY PROGRAM

Eighty Miles of Roads Scheduled for Repairs During Summer Season.

A program calling for surface treatment of 80 miles of county roads at an estimated cost of $17,100.45 was approved by the county commissioners yesterday and June 22 at ... p m was set for the opening of bids for the work.

This program to be financed entirely by the county's share of gasoline and automobile license taxes will represent a major portion of the work scheduled for the county roads this year, County Surveyor Cecil R Leavens said.

Work outlined by the surveyor and the county commissioners in a recent tour of the county road system calls for the application of 18,930 gallons of liquid asphalt and 101,677 gallons of medium tar.

Cost Lower

Reduced prices in road material will make possible this extensive program at a cost much lower than it would have been a year ago, Surveyor Leavens pointed out. Prices a year ago would have made this year's program cost approximately $4,520 or 20 per cent more than the estimated cost he said. The engineer has estimated that the cost of furnishing and applying liquid asphalt will be 12 cents a gallon and that the cost of furnishing and applying medium tar will be nine cents a gallon.

In resurfacing with these materials the tar or liquid asphalt will be sprayed on the road and covered with stone chips.

Forty three sections of county roads will receive attention in the program.

Roads to be treated with liquid asphalt and the approximate length of the sections to be improved follow: Mt. Olive-Agosta road, three fourths of a mile; Ground Hog road, three fourths of a mile; Conley Thompson road

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS O June ... Denied executive clemency, Henry Loudermilk white and Will ... Brown Negro must die in the electric chair at Ohio penitentiary tonight for the murder of Eli Kidney aged Pickaway county farmer during a robbery.

Gov George White refused to intervene after the state board and S P Dunkle executive secretary to the governor reported they had no recommendation in the case. A hearing on an appeal for executive clemency was held Wednesday.

Kidney was beaten to death and robbed of $400 his life savings last Dec 10.

Loudermilk father of ... children was convicted as the instigator of the crime. He admitted he drove five Negroes in an automobile to a spot near the Kidney home but denied he was involved in the slaying.

Brown was named as the actual killer despite his alibi that he was in Columbus the night of Dec 10. Two other Negroes are awaiting the death penalty and two are serving life terms for the slaying.

Kidney's home was 15 miles east of Circleville. He was struck down as he emerged from the house to get water from a well for his invalid sister. The killers then bound and gagged Kidney's sister and ransacked the house until they found the hidden money.

CHICAGO PRODIGY LEARNS TOO FAST

Eight Year Old Girl Through Grades Too Young to Graduate

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO June 3—Chicago's eight year old girl prodigy whose intellectual brilliance made her a teacher of backward children in her school went through eight grades in two years but can't be graduated because she's too young.

Joanna Xerox whose parents can neither speak nor write the English language is the girl.

Her principal Alfred W Schroeder decided yesterday that although she had made startling progress in Latin algebra and Spanish she is not mature enough to enter high school. Instead she will be asked to repeat her grade school studies beginning the next school year at the fourth grade.

Joanna reads books written for grown ups and says she intends to teach history in college when he's old enough. During the past year she has spent part of her time studying and the rest in teaching slow learning pupils in her own school.

Did So Only on Two "Technical Occasions," Democratic Chieftain Says.

CALLED IN SENATE PROBE

Facts Sought Regardless of Political Consideration, Probe Lawyer Says.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON June 3—The senate banking committee was told by its counsel today that John J Raskob sold General Motors stock short while he was an officer of the corporation.

Raskob who is chairman of the Democratic National committee presented an itemized statement of three accounts and said that "at no time will you find I sold General Motors short except on what might be called two technical occasions."

These times he said were in 1926, and August 1930 when he sold 10,000 shares "which I couldn't deliver for about six weeks."

William A Gray committee counsel charged that March 10 1928, Raskob sold 40,000 shares short at $159.

"I sold them but not short," Raskob retorted.

As Raskob took the stand Senator Glass Democrat of Virginia, asked Gray if he proposed to involve several Republicans also.

Tells of Rumors

The Virginian said there were rumors that Gray intended to involve a number of prominent Democrats.

Gray replied he had "endeavored to put before the committee all information and situations without regard to political consideration."

A little earlier David Lion had told the committee how he made more than half a million dollars out of stock that had been put at his disposal without cost in return for publicity he handled for stock pools.

Raskob succeeded Lion on the stand. Raskob gave his business as "trying to make good Democrats out of misguided Republicans."

Raskob said he became associated with General Motors about 15 years ago becoming an officer later.

Raskob said he resigned his place as vice president in July, 1928 but still is a director of the corporation.

Raskob submitted a statement showing he had 70,?96 shares of General Motors common stock on hand Jan 1 1928 in his regular account and that at the end of 1931 his balance was 20,000 shares.

When Gray asked Raskob about his account and whether they were long or short Raskob replied with a smile:

"I don't want any confusion about long or short."

He presented an itemized statement showing account No 1 with Dyer and Hudson his regular account number 2 a special account and number 3 a consolidation.

Raskob said he had the special account because he'd been advised it was better for selling.

"At no time will you find I sold General Motors short except on what might be called two technical occasions," Raskob said.

Gray asked him if the Archmere company account in the brokerage house was his.

"That is Mrs Raskob's company," Raskob said. "It's an estate account. She owns it."

Gray then asked him about an account in the name of H S Raskob.

"That's hers," Raskob replied.

The consolidated account filed by Raskob showed that at the end of March 1928 he had a balance of 15,800 shares and was on the long side of the market ever since except in August 1930, when he sold 10,000 shares without having any on hand.

His balance in September 1928, shrank to 1,250 shares.

Gray described a sale of 58,000 shares by Raskob in 1927 as a pure short transaction.

Raskob said none of his transactions were designed to manipulate the market and denied that they were pool operations.

Gray charged that Raskob conducted his operations so as to keep people from knowing them.

Raskob retorted such was not the case.

Norbeck asked him what were his profits to which Raskob replied that in 1928 for eight sales totaling about 100,000 shares his average price was $165 a share, while the high that year was $224.

THE LITTLE GIRL WHO FOUND HER APPETITE

YESTERDAY at both breakfast and lunch, she only toyed with her food — so no wonder Mother was just a little concerned But today, it's another story Mother has found just the treat to tempt a young appetite It's a big bowl of Kellogg's Rice Krispies and milk And just see her dip right in with her spoon and enjoy every mouthful of that good, nourishing cereal.

It gives you a lot of satisfaction, doesn't it, to see your children enjoying their food? Well, just give them Kellogg's Rice Krispies This different cereal fascinates youngsters Crisp, delicious rice bubbles that actually snap, crackle and pop in milk or cream!

And Rice Krispies are one of the best of cereals for children So tempting, nourishing, and easy to digest Splendid for the evening meal — they do not overtax like many heavy foods, and so they encourage restful sleep

You'll enjoy Rice Krispies for your own lunch — perhaps with fruits or honey added Great for brightening breakfast

Kellogg's Rice Krispies are made with scrupulous care Spotless ovens Gleaming machinery Sunlit kitchens No hands ever touch this cereal And Rice Krispies are sealed in a protective WAXTITE bag which is placed inside the red-and-green package, and keeps every morsel oven-fresh Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek Quality guaranteed

Plan Sought To Assure Bucyrus School Opening

Board of Education, Facing Financial Crisis, Considers Four Methods of Cutting Expenses, All Propose 20 Per Cent Salary Cuts.

Special to The Star

BUCYRUS, June 3 — Faced by a critical financial condition the Bucyrus school board Thursday night attempted to lay plans whereby city schools could reopen in September The board is faced with a greatly decreased budget due to the change in state tax laws and reappraisal of real estate this year

An indebtedness of over $17 000 borrowed from local banks to continue school this year plus bonded indebtedness of $37 000 must be met from the August tax settlement which is estimated at approximately $60 000

Four plans whereby expenditures might be reduced were given by Superintendent E N Deitrich to the board which took them under advisement until June 20 when a special meeting will be held

The four plans are as follows first 20 per cent reduction in all salaries by which plan the schools could operate for four months for $74 725 second 20 per cent reduction of salaries elimination of four high school teachers and three supervisors $71 863 for four months third 20 per cent reduction of salaries elimination of three supervisors four high school teachers and one elementary teacher $68 851 and fourth 20 per cent salary reduction elimination of two elementary teachers four high school teachers and three supervisors for which the schools could operate for $65 851 for four months

Elimination of elementary school teachers would necessitate doubling up of certain grades which will be avoided if possible Superintendent Deitrich stated

Still further reduction would be made possible by reduction of the first semester from 16 weeks to 12 weeks it was pointed out

Teachers will probably be hired monthly instead of being under contract for the entire year The same method has been adopted by other Ohio cities in the same financial straits

Board members are hopeful of obtaining aid by special legislation as a result of action taken by the local Parent Teachers council recently to start a state wide movement to bring the attention of the governor and legislative body to Ohio school conditions.

From their lofty seats Jerry and Emory could see that the authorities acting in cooperation with the [illegible] had drawn a network of ships about the boat from which it would be almost impossible to escape. Yet each of the guard ships was so far away from the rowboat [illegible] at sea [illegible] Jerry understood the strategy that was so evident from above. The kidnapers' speedboat would undoubtedly be permitted to approach the rowboat unhindered. Having grabbed the satchel containing the money the criminals would turn in race for safety. But the chances of successfully eluding the cordon [illegible] ships seemed from the [illegible] to be slight indeed.

Jerry hoped that he was flying sufficiently high to be unobserved. Emory studied the outlying ring of ships rejoicing in the tense excitement of the moment. What a binge this might turn out to be. He was content with life again for the first time in months. Surfeited with the hothouse atmosphere of New York night club life he had turned the key on his Gramercy park apartment. For a while he had enjoyed the quiet calm of the mid-Victorian house on Beacon street Boston. But as usual six weeks of peace had whetted his appetite for adventure.

He had picked up a two-day-old newspaper with the vague idea of reading the advertisements of round the world cruises when his eye had fallen upon the first page story of the spectacular kidnapings in New York. The affair had appealed to his imagination and he had read the article with interest. Midway to the bottom of the first column he had come upon Jerry's name. Forty five minutes later his roadster was roaring toward the scene of action. Had the dispatch told of Jerry's injury in a Paris brawl he would have sailed on the next steamer. Jerry the gay hearted war buddy of the 199th Pursuit Wing the never failing friend was the one man in the world whom Emory never tired of seeing.

The friendship between these two men who had flown, fought and played together lay too deep for speech. It was something that each took as much for granted as the rising and setting of the sun.

Emory stiffened in his seat, bent far over the cockpit wall and thumbed the focussing wheel of his binoculars. There far to the southwest was another airplane winging its way straight toward the center of the encircled area. It was well below his slowly flying plane forging along at an altitude of about five thousands feet. Emory stared at it trying to distinguish its type and its markings.

With ten or twelve thousand feet of space separating the two ships, it was to be hoped that the other pilot would not notice the plane which was spying upon him.

At last Emory's practiced eyes discerned the curious hook nosed underbody of an amphibian a type of ship equally at home on or over land and sea.

Jerry obeying an instinct acquired during the war worked the biplane into a position between the sun and the lower amphibian. While he was able to keep that strategic place he would be almost invisible to the flyers below.

The strange pilot betrayed no uncertainty of purpose. Straight as a bullet he flew toward the little rowboat anchored within the far flung circle of waiting vessels. The amphibian suddenly nosed and began a steep dive toward the surface. Jerry closed his throttle and put the biplane in a thin glide.

"They're after the money," he roared above the popping of the motor and the whistle of the wind through wires and struts.

Emory nodded briefly his blue eyes glittering with excitement. He focussed his glasses again upon the amphibian which was now levelling out for a landing not thirty feet from the tossing boat.

Small as was the toy like plane beneath them Emory could see a tiny black figure standing upon its lower wing as its pilot steered for the rowboat. The man leaped into the boat, remained there a moment then as the amphibian turned slowly into the wind he returned to the wing. Presently he was seated again in the rear cockpit.

The amphibian began to move through the water leaving behind a spear-shaped wake which contrasted whitely against the blue background of the sea. The wake ceased abruptly. The swift moving plane now in its natural element banked in a wide swinging arc toward the southwest and pursued a ruler-straight course in the direction whence it had appeared.

Jerry whirled his plane around and headed after the amphibian still keeping within the blinding rays of the sun.

For Saturday, June 4.

ALTHOUGH there is a testimony of stubborn obstacles and small anxiety or setback according to the lunar aspects yet the day should be a lively interesting and ultimately prosperous one in both business and private connections. It is a time for pushing to desired goals in employment and with others in positions of power and authority who will be found friendly disposed. But there is also a sign of peril through extravagance indulgence, show, carelessness or litigation. Guarded speech and calm decisions are enjoined.

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate a year of splendid opportunity despite some measure of opposition and delay. There is promise of favor, preferment and co-operation from superiors, employers and those in power.

"Heart of a Wife"

BY ADELE GARRISON

All Agree That the Missing Girls Must Be in the Mountains Near the School

THERE was quick resentment in Harry Underwood's eyes at my comment that Marion and Carolyn either had recognized the man driving the car which they had been seen entering or that he had made them believe he was a messenger from their families.

"What other possible explanation could there be?" he demanded curtly. "Have you any idea that they went for a casual ride with some stranger?"

"You know I didn't mean that," I said quietly, and before I had finished my sentence he was apologizing fervently, disconnectedly.

Hardly a Possibility

"Forgive me. My nerves are like frayed fiddle strings."

"I do not know condition," Hugh Grantland, who had been sitting at a corner desk writing, struck into the conversation. "But would it be possible for these girls to have made the acquaintance of some man in the village without your knowledge?" He looked at Dr Barnes and his wife as he spoke.

"Possible yes," Dr Barnes replied "but extremely improbable especially in the case of girls like Marion and Carolyn. We like to feel that all of our girls are incapable of breaking one of our most rigid standards. I do not like to say rules for we do not put anything so crass into formal rulings. But the pupils understand that a breach of this particular standard would probably mean removal from the school.

"There are of course in every group of girls some more reckless than others but we pride ourselves [illegible] school and in the case of Marion upon the general morals of the [illegible] and Carolyn both Mrs Barnes and myself would stake everything upon their dignity and their sense of responsibility to the school. They must have had some urgent reason for entering that car."

"Thank you," Harry Underwood said earnestly, then rose abruptly. "I promised my wife I would bring her back here," he said, "so I'll just go along after her now."

"Can't you persuade her to lie down?" Mrs Barnes asked.

Mapping the Country

"Not while there is anything to be done," he answered. "And after all action is the best thing for her. She will keep sane if she is kept so busy that she has no time to think. I want to get over to the hotel by the time she has Mrs Brixton quieted, then there will be no interval of waiting for her."

His voice was so charged with tenderness and understanding of his wife's nature that I think everyone in the room regarded him with respectful admiration. With his hand on the door he spoke to Hugh Grantland.

"We want to start at daybreak to comb the roads. I wish you people would go over those maps and make a new rough one of all possible roads leading from the one on which the automobile went off after taking in the girls. Mark the distances in miles, and then we can divide the work when we get back. We'll need two in each car, one to drive and one to look for clues. I realize it's a practically hopeless quest, but at least we'll be doing everything we can."

"Everything will be ready for you," Hugh said quietly, and even as the door closed behind [illegible] were gathered around [illegible] desk [illegible] Lillian [illegible]

We worked to such purpose that by the time Harry and Lillian returned each of us had a mental picture as well as a concrete map of the nearest mountain roads for with one accord we felt that it was near at hand that our search must be made.

"Decoying those two girls away wouldn't be an easy job, like taking a baby," Hugh said as Harry and Lillian finished their examination of the maps. "I don't think he'd take the risk of taking them along traveled roads any longer than possible."

They May Be Near

"Right you are," Harry Underwood answered. "They are both girls of physical and mental alertness, active as cats and with keen perceptions. He couldn't keep them fooled as to his real purpose very long and if once they suspected him they would take the first chance of attracting the attention of other motorists."

"I'm sure they are hidden somewhere in the mountainous country around us," Dr Barnes said. "We are situated as it were in the bottom of a cup with mountains all around us. The flag upon our pole can be seen for miles around. The girls may well be almost within sight of the school."

"Oh," I exclaimed suddenly remembering something that might fit into this puzzle of broken pieces that we were trying to put together.

Women said:
A fast working soap can't be safe!

BUT they didn't know about the New Oxydol then

If sad experience with other soaps has convinced you that a soap able to soak dirt out quickly is too strong for colors and fine materials—try Oxydol. No longer need you spend extra time washing lingerie because you're afraid to use the same soap that whisks dirt out of sheets!

Women know now that rich suds are what do the extra work for them—that suds are the secret of all easy washing.

The New Oxydol's as mild as May—as kind to hands as it is to dainty things—yet it takes dirt out faster than any soap you've ever seen. Because it makes 50% more suds—richer, longer lasting suds that float dirt out and hold it out so clothes are fresh and fragrant—clean smelling suds that don't ball up or leave a scum.

Use it for dishes too. See how quickly those extra suds cut the grease—how easily they rinse off so dishes are sparkling clean—how much work they save you. And remember that Oxydol softens water. Even the softest water turns hard when you put in dirty clothes or dishes.

Ask your grocer today for a big package of the New Oxydol. Use enough to make rich suds—it dissolves instantly—and see how it lightens all your household tasks.

VANGLER SIGNED TO BATTLE ARQUETTE IN FEATURE RING MATCH

Fast Card Lined Up for Second Outdoor Program Next Monday

Sammy Vangler the [illegible] the welterweight [illegible] whose mat clashes [illegible] Porter Reed are listed as classics [illegible] fandom will return to the [illegible] next Monday night to the [illegible] one of the big Monday [illegible] wrestling program. The [illegible] star card will be presented at the new outdoor arena at the Steam Shovel [illegible] on [illegible] avenue.

Vangler was [illegible] Monday with Gordon Arquette 145 pound Indian who made his first appearance here several weeks ago in a semi-final match.

The excellent first showing of Arquette has resulted in a big demand for a return engagement so he has been matched with Vangler for the main go Monday. They will meet in a two-out-of-three time limit bout with two falls to win.

Vangler Can Wrestle

Local fans know Vangler can wrestle. The desperate stand he made here against Reed demonstrated that beyond a shadow of a doubt. The suspicion that the swarth skinned Indian can also find his way about the padded mat without any assistance is also fairly general.

Arquette hails from the Indian reservations of Washington and has been wrestling professionally only a short time. His native ability to take punishment without whimpering has made him a sensation in the mat game.

One thing is certain. Vangler won't get away with all of the tactics he used against Reed. Arquette's creed of an eye for an eye and a tooth for a tooth is likely to make a first class riot of the match if Vangler uncorks his pet strangle hold as he has a habit of doing when the going gets rough.

Semi Final Match

On the semi-final of Monday's show Spike Ashby who hails from the tough South side district of Chicago is scheduled to meet the little flash from Indianapolis Harold Speedy Simms in a two out of three falls 45 minute match. This match should provide some interesting entertainment. Simms will lead Ashby a merry chase around the squared circle while Ashby will depend on ruggedness to bring him through on top. It'll be speed vs brawn. Figure it out yourself.

There will be the usual preliminary matches the first to start at 8 30 p m.

[illegible] Six runs were pushed across the plate in the sixth frame and [illegible] more in the seventh. The [illegible] scored once each in the fifth and sixth. Cook proved effective on the mound for the Shovel. He also contributed a triple that accounted for a share of the Shovel's eight tallies. Ballenger slammed out three hits in four times at bat for the Shovel.

Mutt Kellogg pitching for the Huber was his usual self yesterday. The speed ball flinger issued eight free passes to first base but his nine strikeouts were enough to keep him out of the hole most of the time. Kellogg held the Augenstein A C to three hits and one run until he was removed late in the game in favor of Benny Crabtree. The Augenstein nine took kindly to the Crabtree offerings and laced out enough hits to drive in three scores and give the Huber a 4-3 beating. W. Walters Augenstein pitcher limited the Huber to three hits in the seven innings.

Error Is Costly

The Excavator Alloy club put up a stiff battle before succumbing to the 1931 Industrial league champions the C D & M by a 1-0 score. Henry Gilmore held the Electricians to six scattered hits in the seven innings. Two successive hits and an error allowed the only run of the game to filter across the plate in the sixth frame and break the scoreless deadlock. Bob Gaunt was even stingier with his hits allowing the losers only three scattered singles. He struck out four [illegible]

"Two-Bit" Bleacher Seats Bring Varied Reactions

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO June 3 — First returns from the American Association's [illegible] bleacher front have brought [illegible] and sad news to the club owners.

[illegible] reported a rousing response [illegible] of the new plan to admit fans to certain sections of the bleachers for a quarter. Milwaukee and Toledo reports were [illegible] from Kansas City and Louisville were discouraging. Columbus St Paul and Minneapolis still were to give the bargain rates a trial.

Officials of the Indianapolis club which threw open 2000 two-bit seats at Perry stadium said the bleacher attendance was doubled and were enthusiastic. The bargain rate section at Milwaukee numbering 2,500 was fairly well filled in the first test while at Toledo where 1300 were available the report was "fair." At Kansas City however only 32 took advantage of the rates yesterday the first bargain day and at Louisville officials said the response was meager.

Minneapolis climbed back into first place in the pennant race again yesterday by defeating Kansas City 5 to 3 while the lowly Toledo Mud Hens [illegible] Indianapolis 5 to 4.

The victory sent Donie Bush's men into the lead by a full game margin over the Indians.

Milwaukee and Louisville emerged triumphant in two heavy hitting battles yesterday. The Brewers banging out 19 hits to defeat St Paul 18 to 6 and Louisville dropping Columbus in the Red Birds last game in historic Neil park 9 to 5. Alex Metzler drove out two homers and two singles to lead Milwaukee's attack while Nick Cullop hit his eighth and ninth homers of the season for Columbus to no avail.

Marion Club To Make First Sally into Foreign Territory.

The Marion Steam Shovel A A C baseball team will make its first sally of the season into foreign territory Sunday when it travels to Galion for a clash with the Galion city club. The game will be played at Heise park.

Managers Drumm and Colgrove will take practically the same lineup to Galion as recently defeated the strong MacIntosh-Hemphill nine of Wooster. Emmet Curtis the Shovel's speed ball artist will be on the mound with Griffith of Marysville behind the bat. Ballenger Pohler Shoup and Sawyer make up the infield. Glauner Robbins and probably Penry will patrol the outfield.

Efforts to organize a league embracing teams from Marion Bucyrus Kenton Carey Bucyrus and Tiffin have not yet been successful. However negotiations are still going on and if the league is formed the Shovel club will represent Marion. Until a league is formed the Shovel will compete in independent baseball.

Columbus Team To Launch Play in New Stadium

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS O June 3 Today was the day for the baseball fans of Ohio's capital.

Climaxing years of planning the fans this afternoon will help dedicate the new stadium costing $400,000 for the Columbus Red Birds of the American Association. With a half holiday declared for the occasion by Mayor Henry W. Worley a capacity crowd of about 20,000 was expected to witness the ceremonies which will be followed by a game between Columbus and the Louisville Colonels.

BROWN, BETTS PROVE BIG HELP TO BOSTON IN NATIONAL LEAGUE

Braves Split Twin Bill with Brooklyn. Yanks Down Philadelphia, 5-1.

By The Associated Press

Bob Brown and Huck Betts of the [illegible] Boston Braves, a [illegible] and a veteran of [illegible] are [illegible] one of the greatest [illegible] seen in any league.

[illegible] can pick up one winning rookie pitcher these days is [illegible] but Manager Bill McKechnie has found a pair who [illegible] like world beaters. Each has contributed five victories to the Braves pennant fight.

Brown has been particularly troublesome to Brooklyn beating the Dodgers four times. Twice he has limited Max Carey's pupils to four hits. His second four-hitter was achieved yesterday when he clipped the Dodgers 5 to 1 in the second game of a doubleheader after Brooklyn had beaten Socko Seibold 6 to 1 in the first.

Hack Wilson's seventh homer after two were out in the ninth deprived him of a shut out.

The Braves however lost ground to the leading Chicago Cubs who beat Pittsburgh 9 to 5. The only other game scheduled the Phillies at New York was rained out.

Lefty Gomez rang up his ninth victory against one defeat as the Yankees trimmed the Athletics 5 to 1. The Castilian beat the A's for the fourth straight time, kept eight hits widely spaced and struck out 10 batters.

Washington strengthened its hold on second place in the American with a double win over the floundering Boston Red Sox 8 to 4 and 5 to 1. Monte Weaver won his eighth victory in the opener.

The St. Louis Browns bunched two doubles and three singles with a base on balls in the third inning to score four runs off Al Thomas and beat the Chicago White Sox 4 to 2. Cleveland's scheduled double-header at Detroit was rained out.

OCKS STAGE RISK RALLY

[illegible] ed Press [illegible] 3 Secu[illegible]ties [illegible] in one of [illegible] s of the [illegible] shares [illegible] having spent [illegible] noon but [illegible] tained [illegible] of bank [illegible] the bond [illegible] the quick [illegible] by senate [illegible] Washing[illegible] effective in [illegible] spirit [illegible] much of [illegible] impressive [illegible] the share market were the rails and such recently depressed rails and such utilities tobaccos foods, and chemicals. Issues getting up about 2 to 3 points included American Telephone North American Consolidated Gas Pacific Gas, United Gas Improvement American Tobacco B Allied Chemical Drug National Biscuit Loose Wiles Corn Products American Can U S Steel and Union Pacific. Fi[illegible] point advances appeared in Liggett & Myers B and Peoples Gas. Gains of a point or so were numerous by early afternoon the market quieted down somewhat and U S Steel sagged [illegible] and American Telephone 2 from their best levels.

The appearance of impressive [illegible]ids in the recently demoralized bond market was probably the most cheering development of the day.

While the upswing in shares undoubtedly gained impetus from short covering brokers reported considerable buying of preferred stocks and bonds in small lots suggesting some return of investment buying.

Week end trade surveys failed to shed any light on the outlook. Dun's found considerable cause for encouragement in the volume of retail trade while Bradstreet's was inclined to stress general quiet. With the approach of summer of course there is a tendency to look for little change in the general business situation until toward autumn.

It was said that if the weather did not become too hot the quality would be good. Dispatches continued [illegible] favorable prospects for spring wheat northwest.

Rallies that followed early downturns of wheat value were ascribed to indications of large export business in North American wheat overnight including a liberal amount of United States hard winter. Greece was said to have purchased three full cargoes of No 1 hard domestic wheat at the Gulf of Mexico and sought to buy additional quantities at higher premiums. Notice was taken of a reported sale of No 1 hard winter wheat from Oklahoma to a northern point at 4 cents over the gulf basis for June shipment. Corn and oats followed wheat.

The loot recovered yesterday was returned to The Monnett & Cleveland elevator, the Monnett Lumber Co. and the J. A. P[illegible] elevator at Caledonia.

While searching for another typewriter taken from the Monnett & Cleveland elevator in Caledonia officials located loot in Cleveland this week which has been identified as that taken from the Harley Hardware store in Caledonia and Marion. It consisted of [illegible] and miscellaneous loot.

Hill was arrested in Cleveland on the morning following the burglary of the Caledonia business places. Part of the loot found in his car was identified as that taken from the Brinkman store in Bucyrus. Cleveland detectives [illegible] Hill over to Bucyrus authorities for prosecution. Loot he [illegible] at that time to have been taken from Caledonia business places later was positively identified.

—BY ARTHUR BRISBANE—

MORE THAN A THOUSAND veterans are in Washington [illegible] to the Capitol, where [illegible] can see them. Five thousand more are on their way. [illegible] say they "will stay in Washington until 1945, if necessary, [illegible] they get the bonus paid [illegible]." Also some have said: "We [illegible] young men of this country, [illegible] for it, and we propose [illegible]."

[illegible] will add to the hard thinking of senate and house, now wondering how they can attend to the [illegible] on hand, including a deficit [illegible] two thousand million dollars.

[illegible] not a pleasure trip for the veterans. They sleep in tents and the world's richest country" spends six cents a day on the food of each man, two meals at three cents apiece.

IN GERMANY'S "magic mountain," the Brocken, made familiar to you by Goethe, British and German psychological investigators, will endeavor in the light of the full moon on June 17 or 18 "to transform a goat into a handsome youth."

The superstitious believe that the thing can be done, with the assistance of "a maiden pure of heart." Two young women, one English, one German, will be provided in case there should be something wrong with one of them.

One of the maidens, all in white, will lead a white goat by a silver cord into a circle near a pine fire, anoint the goat with blood, honey and scrapings of church bells, covering the goat with a sheet.

Bystanders will utter Latin incantations and, when the moon is obscured, the sheet will be removed and it is expected that a handsome youth will appear in place of the goat.

That probably can be arranged, if it is dark enough for a handsome young man unobserved, to creep into the circle, while the goat creeps out.

TWO DISPATCHES from Mexico remind you of Russian news. In the "State of Mexico" one of Mexico's subdivisions, every Catholic church is closed, because Catholic authorities have not complied with legislation requiring them to name 34 priests, none to be foreigners, and no others to officiate in the state.

Another dispatch says the government has taken 22,000 acres of land belonging to the Malpaso hacienda, dividing the land among 309 unemployed laborers. Each laborer gets about 71 acres of land, and promises to cultivate it diligently.

Giving lands to people that have none, as an offset to crushing and dispossessing the church, has been part of the Russian program, as it was part of the French revolution.

Time will tell the effects of today's fight against religion. There is no doubt that the French revolution, although it lasted but a short time, greatly weakened the hold of religion on the French people, except, perhaps, among peasants.

Samuel Johnson, in his life of Milton, expresses the opinion that to suspend religious exercises even temporarily is dangerous.

"To be of no church is dangerous. Religion, of which the rewards are distant, and which is animated only by faith and hope, will glide by degrees out of the mind unless it be invigorated and reimpressed by external ordinances, by stated calls to worship, and the salutary influence of example."

IT HAVING BEEN announced that young men graduating from the naval academy at Annapolis will be forbidden to marry within two years after leaving Annapolis, Congressman Cochran of Missouri will introduce a bill to prevent any such regulation.

Men in the army and navy should marry early because of the probability of their being killed young in case of war, and the desirability of their leaving descendants to fill their places.

It would have been a good thing if Nelson had married the young Canadian girl with whom he was so desperately in love, when he commanded a frigate cruising off the Atlantic coast in our war with England.

If he had married that girl, from whom fellow officers dragged him to his ship by force, he might have left after him some interesting little Nelsons and refrained from making such a fool of himself with Lady Hamilton.

Milk prices in Marion reached the lowest point in the last 15 years with yesterday's one cent drop Local dairymen agreed this morning that not since the rise in price began during the World war has milk been sold for the prices that went into effect yesterday

The drop was termed by one dairyman as an attempt to seek a price level The new price scale went into effect yesterday Milk now sells for seven cents a quart and four cents a pint

Customers were advised of the price drop either in notes attached to the milk bottles delivered yesterday morning or by the drivers

The general price scale adopted by the dairies includes coffee cream at seven cents a half pint 14 cents a pint and 28 cents a quart One of the dairies announced plain buttermilk at five cents a quart or 10 cents a gallon if the customer furnishes his own container The same dairy quoted creamed buttermilk at seven cents a quart

BONUS ARMY JAMS CAPITAL

Critical Situation Arises in Washington, Exhausting Shelter Facilities.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON June 3—A critical situation shaped up today as hundreds of bonus seeking war veterans poured into the city and had to be quartered shelterless in open fields for lack of billeting space

To the 600 who have been quartered in vacant buildings for the past few days and the 1000 or so reported being cared for individually by local charities were added two new delegations last night with more expected by freight train and truck during today

Brigadier General Glassford superintendent of police had sought tents from the war department but met with flat refusal from Secretary Hurley A crew of carpenters was organized from among the jobless veterans today to build wall-less lumber shelters in open fields

Funds for feeding the men were low and with thousands of men striving to get here from all quarters of the country local authorities were desperate

The objective of the bonus seekers was still distant By this morning only 119 members of the house had signed the petition requiring 145 names through which it is sought to compel a vote on legislation to pay the $2 000 000 000 of bonus principal outstanding

Oust Radicals from Bonus Ranks

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND O June 3 — Alleged attempts by Cleveland communists to capitalize on the bonus march to Washington awakened undisguised hostility among some 2,000 veterans enroute through here today and threatened to delay their progress indefinitely

At a roll call ordered this afternoon the veterans have announced the intention of throwing out all men unable to show army discharges and evidence that they are entitled to government service compensation

Walter Eicher of Detroit a leader of the Michigan unit led the attack on Communistic efforts to horn in on the march

This is strictly for ex-service men he said We cannot have men in our outfit who have no service records

At a recruiting tent on public square under the direction of C R Cowan reputed Communist agitator all recruits were being requested to show their discharge papers before signing up

Scheduled to get under way this afternoon the bonus expeditionary force appeared halted for at least another 24 hours as skirmishing continued to purge the ranks of Communists Vehement denial that any of the Cleveland recruits were Communists was forthcoming from local leaders

A Detroit brigade 850 strong camped overnight here a Chicago group arrived in Toledo early today and some 700 ex-service men were eager to start from Cincinnati providing they could find transportation

Weary and hungry the Detroit division rolled into Cleveland at midnight aboard a New York Central freight train which brought them from Toledo

Cowan asserted they would be increased by 600 ex-soldiers including 22 from the soldiers home at Sandusky and about 80 from Canton upon their departure for Youngstown today The Erie railroad has been asked to furnish transportation from Youngstown to Pittsburgh Cowan said but has given no answer

A Strong, Guiding Hand.

The strongest man in the White House is not the least of comforts by far in these hectic days. The President's new policy of aggressiveness in his relations with congress has given a restless and confused people a strong, guiding hand to follow.

Mr. Hoover started his administration with a different policy, one which divided the administrative from the legislative branch. Still, even before the Republican party lost its working majority in congress, the folly of expecting the house and senate to legislate in the interest of the majority of the people must have been obvious to the President.

With Democrats now in nominal control of the house and coalitions unfriendly to the administration in actual control of both house and senate, the man in the White House either must use a big stick or perish. Mr. Hoover has chosen to fight for his principles and his political life.

It will be a popular fight. The President of the United States is elected by all the people; senators and representatives are elected by sections and represent, therefore, sectional interests. In any struggle between the President and congress, consequently, the man enlists support more easily than the disunited group.

Democracy needs strong leaders during periods of unusual strain—leaders strong enough to exercise dictatorial power without actually having it. It is unreasonable to hope that during the few days of his session of congress which remain President Hoover will have any more success giving orders than he has had previously, but there is deep comfort for the people in knowing that he recognizes the need for a voice that will speak to congress of national needs, above the roar of hundreds interested only in their own little constituencies and their favor at election time. Mr. Hoover has added many cubits to his popularity in the last few weeks because he has acted as the champion of broad public interest. He will emerge from the ordeal stronger than he would have been had he never dared to fight.

Why Not?

The governor of Kansas, Harry H. Woodring, is planning his campaign for reelection on strictly modern lines. He will have a theme song, he will utilize the radio and will take his campaign into the living rooms of Kansas homes in the newest commercial fashion.

Other candidates will do the same. The presidential campaign of 1928 was carried on largely by means of radio. This year commercial tie-ups may be made, with candidates carrying on under the banners of popular products. Politics, reason the business men of radio, is an ace card in the game of getting public attention.

The experiment is worth trying. No risk is involved for the politicians. It is an ideal arrangement for them if they can get time for nothing. If their speeches have half the drawing power they think they put into them there will be mutual benefits for all parties concerned.

If there happens to be a revulsion of popular feeling, of course, radio will be the goat—not the politicians, who have everything to gain and nothing to lose. They can go on indefinitely rattling off their arguments, happy in their ignorance of the fact that the dial has been turned to get away from their clutches. But how, one wonders, are radio advertisers convinced that people "out yonder" actually suspend everything to listen to selling talks over the air lanes whether given by politicians or announcers?

Shades of Red.

Communists will put their faith in William Z. Foster again this year as the best bet to bring out the "red" vote. As a presidential candidate in 1928 Mr. Foster polled 48,000 votes in the 35 states where Communists had a place on the ballot. The total represented slightly more than one-tenth of one per cent of all votes cast. Almost 11,000 of the votes came from New York.

The Communist convention, like the conventions of the major parties, feeds on the opposition presented by the convention of its rival party—the Socialists. Republicans and Democrats take satisfaction in calling each other black; Communists and Socialists get the same satisfaction in deriding the enemy's particular shade of red.

Socialists, who polled 267,000 votes for their presidential candidate in 1928, will be criticized by Communists because they shaded off into a pale pink this year, in their platform. They, in turn, have nothing but sneering words for the deep, angry red affected by the Communists.

It is predicted quite generally that voting in the presidential election this year will mark a swing toward a more liberal attitude. For obvious reasons the prediction is subject to question, so far as the two major parties are concerned. There will be little to choose between their platforms in all probability.

There appears to be slight likelihood, furthermore, that the parties of the extreme left—the Socialists and Communists—will pick up enough additional votes to make a substantial showing. The United States is bound to a middle course in politics. There is nowhere else to go.

To Prove It Can Be Done.

The giant tax bill passed by the senate and sent to final conference between the two houses of congress will give the weary [illegible] of the balancing taxpayers. It will be a plentiful handicap to income and a constant reminder of the penalties of government. So are all [illegible] it may not produce sufficient new tax revenue actually to balance the federal budget.

The [illegible] of a [illegible] balanced budget in the tax [illegible]. It does not matter a great deal at the moment [illegible] there may be another deficit at the end of the fiscal year, it does matter that when the year [illegible] next July 1 government will have been [illegible] of expenditures with income as nearly balanced as [illegible] estimates based on expectancy. The nations of the world are demanding a [illegible]. The United States has to prove that it [illegible] to balance its national budget on paper at least. [illegible] the present it is a matter of intention.

There will come another and a more trying time when the United States will have to prove ability to balance the budget in fact. That will be later, months after it has tried [illegible] the extraordinary system of patchwork taxation that congress has concocted and enacted in [illegible] these last few weeks. There will be, in the meantime, many revisions of estimates and [illegible] their nature will depend, in the final [illegible] the balancing of the budget. It is in the hands of fate, which are at least as dependable as those of parliamentarian congress.

President Hoover's emergency message to the senate Tuesday [illegible] to the people, if one be needed, that the United States is passing through an important [illegible] in its current history. Danger has been averted, presumably, by the senate's expeditious action in passing a tax bill that produces theoretical income equal to the amount of the government's expenses for the next fiscal year. That the people [illegible] the necessity of assuming extra taxation burdens for the sake of national welfare is reflected in the sympathetic attention they have given the President's messages.

Mr. Hoover's recommendation for a manufacturers' excise tax, included in his emergency message to the senate, was ignored pointedly by that body's finance committee. Later, the sales tax, a logical and practical extension of the principle embodied in the manufacturers' tax, was rejected by the senate. The sales tax, as a public issue, disappears for the present, as the result. Depend on it, however, that it will be discussed again, and each time more sensibly as opportunities are given to study its advantages and to compare them with the undemocratic operation of various forms of makeshift taxation. Experience with revenue the next 12 months may convince die-hards that income taxation is no longer fit to be the keystone of the tax system.

Confidence has been strengthened by President Hoover's action in using the influence of his office and the power of his mentality to move the senate out of the doldrums in the direction of a theoretically balanced budget. Abroad and at home the air has been cleared. Unfortunately, the process has entailed needlessly ruthless action, whose effects will be felt long after the occasion has been forgotten. Taxpayers, who have waited before, now will stand aghast at the size of the portion of their incomes which the federal government will take. But it was necessary to prove to the world that the United States could be courageous enough to balance its budget. Proof will be available when the legislative mill finally grinds out the revised form of the extraordinary taxation bill that the senate passed last Tuesday.

An Economic Conference.

A forthcoming international economic conference which the United States will attend promises to produce much of interest, but little action. It will resemble a council of learned physicians—all excellent diagnosticians—but barred by ethics from administering to another's patient.

The effect of tariff on a sick world will be discussed. International banking, monetary reform, commercial treaties, tariff unions, falling commodity prices, the gold standard and the price of silver will be described clearly. But the descriptions will partake more of the nature of reviews than recommendations for reform.

Political questions will be avoided scrupulously, though they are so much a part of the economic questions that omitting them would be much like a doctor's refusal to recognize that a patient's chest might have something to do with his illness. However, political questions, meaning war debts and reparations, are to be discussed in another conference, which is to be held earlier.

The truth probably is that problems of international economics are too big for men to handle. It is only after they have been softened up and weakened by contact with hard facts that men are able to understand them. The history of what has happened in the past is clear enough, but of what will happen in the future is not yet [illegible] more than a bare possibility [illegible] after national boundaries and sectional interests have ceased to be considerations.

Daily Guide to Health

BY DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND.

Vaccination Safe, Sure Smallpox Preventive.

A recent newspaper report stated that a severe epidemic of smallpox was sweeping China in the area of the war maneuvers. Famine and unhygienic conditions have resulted in a most unsanitary existence in that densely populated country. By speedy administration of smallpox vaccination and improvement in sanitary conditions, it was hoped this dread disease might be controlled and prevented from spreading to other parts of the world.

At one time smallpox was known as one of the most serious of all diseases. Each of us is indebted to Edward Jenner, the man who first introduced vaccination in 1796. The value of vaccination came to be recognized throughout the civilized world, and it has become a compulsory procedure in many countries.

In the United States, many states insist upon every individual being vaccinated. Vaccination for school children is compulsory in New York City and the value of this is apparent when we realize that there are seven million inhabitants in New York, where in the last nineteen years there has been but one death from smallpox. The few cases reported were unvaccinated persons who contracted the disease outside the city.

It is well known that wherever smallpox vaccination is compulsory, smallpox is rare. Unfortunately many of our states do not make vaccination compulsory.

I would like to impress upon readers that smallpox, though a rare disease, still exists in North America. More than one hundred and fifty deaths were caused by smallpox in the United States in 1929. That number could be greatly reduced, if not entirely eliminated, if compulsory vaccination were enforced throughout the country.

Contrary to the claims made by so-called antivaccinationists, vaccination is a simple and safe procedure.

The first vaccination should be given between the ages of five and eleven months, but if the child is in poor health and has a skin disease, vaccination should be delayed until good health returns. The first vaccination should not be considered successful unless a small scar is left.

The second vaccination may be given when the child enters school. It may be on the arm or on the leg, but preferably on the arm, where the part is free from dust and moisture, and where it heals more quickly.

Please do not be misled by unscientific propaganda against vaccination. If everyone were vaccinated every seven years, smallpox undoubtedly would disappear completely. Smallpox is preventable, and it is a shame to have it included among the dangers of present civilization.

[illegible] Courtney won the city [illegible] pitching championship from George Burroughs. In two games Courtney threw 33 ringers and Burroughs 25.

Mrs. [illegible] Grubaugh was elected president of the Sunbeam class of Fite Memorial church at a meeting held at the home of Miss Gertrude Ingmire on Nye street.

Trustees of the Waddell Ladies' home met and postponed until June 15 the awarding of a contract for the erection of a new building at the corner of East Center street and Kensington place, which was to replace the home then located on Delaware avenue. [illegible] in the building later converted into the city hospital.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

It was Monday, June 3, 1912.

The county tax budget commission met in the office of County Auditor Jay Spaulding and elected Prosecuting Attorney Charles L. Justice president. The third member of the board was Mayor Claude [illegible] Waters.

The Brazel property on South Prospect street was transferred to the city for use as a site for a new central fire station. The city paid $6,500 for the property.

The county board of tax review began its [illegible] sessions in the office of the county auditor and elected L. F. McNeal president. Other members were G. H. Foster and W. E. Jones.

Dr. James W. McMurray, who had been at Mt. Carmel hospital, Columbus, several weeks following an operation, was reported recovering and was expected to return home within two weeks. At the time he was taken to the hospital it was feared that he was near death.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Hungate entertained a company of friends at a 6 o'clock dinner at their home on South Prospect street.

A report compiled by County Auditor Spaulding showed that, with the new $1,000 liquor tax going into effect Marion county had 47 saloons and of this number 37 were in the city. Previous to a period of local option in the county as the result of a Rose law election, the county had 56 saloons.

An automobile in which Mr. and Mrs. Charles Northrup of North Main street were riding became stalled on the Hocking Valley railroad tracks on West Center street in the path of an approaching passenger train. After the machine had been pulled safely from the tracks the motor started up and the car crashed into the front of Hotel Nordica breaking a window and wrecking the hotel doors. No one was injured. Herman Kahl, [illegible] hotel proprietor standing in front of his place of business, narrowly escaped being hit by the machine.

Highlights of Ohio History

BY J. H. GALBRAITH

CINCINNATI RENAMED

The second and third settlements to be established in what is now Ohio and were located on sites which are both now within the boundaries of Cincinnati, but neither was given the name of Cincinnati. The first settlement on the Cincinnati site was established by Major Benjamin Stites, an adventurous spirit who explored the west for Judge John Cleves Symmes, who purchased the land between the two Miami rivers fronting on the Ohio. With 26 hardy pioneers from New Jersey, he arrived on the Ohio on Nov. 18, 1788, and immediately erected cabins, block houses, calling his town "Columbia."

The settlement at Marietta, it will be observed, was just eight months old when Stites founded his Columbia. On Dec. 28, just five weeks after the landing of Major Stites' party at Columbia, another party of New Jersey people, led by Matthias Denman, Robert Patterson and John Filson, located a settlement on the Ohio shore opposite the mouth of the Licking river, flowing into the Ohio from the Kentucky side.

This location suggested to Filson, who was a surveyor, a poet, and a classical scholar, the name of Losantiville for the new town, and by that name it was known until Jan. 1790, when it was ruthlessly thrown aside by the bluff General Arthur St. Clair, who had been appointed governor of the Northwest territory.

On the date last mentioned, St. Clair arrived at the new settlements on the lower Ohio, making an official visit. Standing on the roof of his house boat as he arrived before this third settlement in the state, the bluff governor surveyed the few straggling cabins on the shore and shouted the question "What in h— is the name of this town, anyway?" On being told that it was Losantiville, he promptly rechristened it Cincinnati and as such it has been known ever since.

New York Day by Day

BY O. O. McINTYRE.

New York, June 3.—Thoughts while strolling: Wonder if they ever [illegible] tiring of copy, paper or newspaper copy? And after that, wonder how long the [illegible] Dave Apollon is a miniature of [illegible], the Russian dancer [illegible] Brummel of the Broadway [illegible].

Westbrook Pegler a Minneapolis man, [illegible] made good in the city. [illegible] Emma [illegible] Best show from The Dutch Treat president—"Bud" Kelland. The Astor now has a [illegible] sign. One of my favorite people—Gene Buck.

A [illegible] in the front of an [illegible]. Wonder what he thinks? An [illegible] hotel. With a glass of [illegible] middle-aged, [illegible] chairs. Gene Tunney [illegible] a fisherman's [illegible]. [illegible] thought: Gene would be great for a [illegible] game. [illegible] Hindenburg [illegible] a [illegible].

A few more [illegible] Queens and [illegible] will become a lost art. Overheard: "[illegible] my last [illegible] for [illegible]." A lady in a gent by the way. There's a [illegible] for [illegible] in Bryant Park [illegible] afternoon. Even to the [illegible] McKay's [illegible].

[illegible] Elmer Rogers left the Palace. Gone are the familiar [illegible] Walter Kingsley, Wilson Mizner, "Snuffy" [illegible] and Arthur Daniel. A [illegible] lettered "[illegible]." The boarding house where I lived in West 47th street. Now a speakeasy.

A [illegible] Russell type of landlady presided there. And the star boarder was a one-armed leopard trainer like the [illegible] in the [illegible] novel. Board and double room $14.50 weekly. In advance, [illegible]. Irving Berlin, Tom [illegible] and Dave [illegible], triple tycoons of the manager.

The dying sun on the Empire's [illegible] spire. I'd like to tack off a [illegible]. The Earl Carroll, now Ziegfeld's Casino, in Broadway's up and down tempo. "Deke" Aylesworth's dandy smile. "As annoyed as a pearl diver with the hiccups." Bruce Barton's brick red, curly hair.

At the N. V. A. they were discussing pioneer acts in vaudeville. [illegible] were McCay's Dancing [illegible]. They waddled from stage pedestals up an incline to a dancing platform, where they immediately began to lift their feet grotesquely. In the argot it was "box office." The shock in the armor was rarely suspected by audiences. The platform was electrified. "One old [illegible]" said Hap Ward, "got so used to electricity he wouldn't burn in the electric chair."

In those days, small wagon shows were largely decoys for looting small towns. Some even sold safe blowing privileges to [illegible]. A species of circus crooks were known as "Monday Guys." During the parade, when everybody rushed to the front of the house, "Monday guys" stripped the week's wash from the clothes lines in back yards.

New York pickpockets in this [illegible] era worked in parks. One set was privileged to work at prize fights. An interloper was usually found in an alley with a cracked skull. At a fight in Harlem some [illegible] lifted the timekeeper's watch. The [illegible] manager summoned the chief of the mob and told him the ticker must be returned. And prompto. The victim was taken to the basement where the loot was piled on a table, prior to being carted to a fence. The timekeeper picked out his watch and to Boze Bulger, who accompanied him, said: "Have one on me!" And the scribe got the finest watch he ever owned, which he carries to this day.

Perhaps the reporter who knows Broadway best—the brittleness of its shell and the yellowness of its yolk—is Damon Runyon. He has cruised through the highlights and shadows for 15 years, sipping coffee at cafe tables and grimly studying its epileptic intensity. It's not excitement for Damon for he was a reporter in hell-roaring Cripple Creek in boom days. As a cub he chased items from mining camp to mining camp, from gambling halls to brothels. Few knew the clotted colorings of the seamy side so well or write about them so engagingly.

* * *

My little balloon was neatly punctured at precisely 6:24 p. m. as of even date. A man I had not seen in years, looked me over and exclaimed: "You look 20 years younger." Hopping a few clouds home, I relayed the news to my wife, who beamed brightly: "He means 20 years younger financially." No wonder I'm about half crazy.—Copyright, 1932, McNaught Syndicate, Inc.

A Washington Daybook

BY HERBERT PLUMMER.

Washington, June 3.—When Speaker Garner finds it necessary to relinquish his gavel as the presiding officer of the house of representatives, his keen eyes search the chamber either for one of two persons.

First he looks for "Bill" Bankhead of Alabama, serious, determined and firm.

If he doesn't see Bankhead then he looks for Lindsay Carter Warren of North Carolina, soft-voiced, quick and decisive.

With either of these men in the chair, "Cactus Jack" feels that he can leave the chamber, stay away as long as he pleases, and know that everything is safe.

Of the two, young Mr. Warren, 42 years old, black-haired and [illegible], serving his fourth term as a member of the house representing the "stormy district" around Cape Hatteras, is perhaps the most colorful.

* * *

Garner has called on him to "sit in" on two of the most important pieces of legislation before this session of congress. He was in the chair when the house voted to create the gigantic Reconstruction Finance corporation. And he held the gavel during consideration of that perhaps most troublesome bill of all—the economy proposal.

Youthful in appearance, Warren rules with an iron hand, has no patience for quibbling and long harangues on parliamentary tangles.

Frequently when a point of order is raised and members prime themselves either to defend or oppose it with long speeches, Warren will break in even while a member is speaking to say firmly:

"The chair is ready to rule."

He rules right then and there, too. And the house's best parliamentarians seldom contest one of his decisions.

* * *

Actually, he was given ovations both at the conclusion of the Reconstruction Finance corporation debate and that on the economy bill. No less a parliamentary expert than Clarence Cannon of Missouri, admittedly about the best in the house, when the economy bill had been disposed of, provoked cheers on the floor when he said:

"Mr. Speaker, I trust it will not be amiss to refer at this time to the ability and impartiality of Mr. Warren...during consideration of the most difficult bill this session."

Warren is one of the wheelhorses of the Democratic organization. They turn to him when there is placating to be done, when some unruly Democrat gets off the reservation, or when there is need of compromise.

His humor, diplomacy and tact have made him a main cog in the organization machinery of the house.

Comment of the Press

FIRST OFFENDERS.

A rule of court provides that when a boy is among a group of prisoners charged with a crime all the prisoners shall be arraigned in the Boys' court. "Boy" is a misleading term. It means for this purpose, a young man between the ages of 17 and 21. According to Judge J. William Brooks, now sitting in the Boys' court, the rule has been taken advantage of by professional criminals. They take a boy along not so much to help in committing the crime as to provide a means of getting into the Boys' court if caught. The older criminals have calculated, perhaps with good reason in the past, that the leniency shown in the Boys' court to first and youthful offenders will be extended to them.

Judge Brooks believes he has put an end to this system of evading punishment, and it is to be hoped that he has. The point he makes, however, serves to illustrate how unwise it can be to follow the advice of sentimentalists in the treatment of crime and criminals. No doubt the rule in question was established to assure a sympathetic treatment for youthful first offenders who might thus be rescued from a criminal career before it was too late to reform them. "First offender" in this sense can well be as ambiguous a term as "boy." A first offender is one who has never before been caught, but it does not and cannot mean one who has never before broken the law. A first offender can be as hardened and as incorrigible a criminal as any safecracker of 45. Accordingly there is almost as much to be said against giving especially favored treatment to all first offenders without distinction, as there is to the contrary policy.

Nor is that the end of the story. The sentimentalist assumes that it is more important to rescue the erring than to protect society and punish crime. Inevitably this point of view has been taken advantage of by the professional enemies of society. They do not follow the sportsman's code in their game with the police. They will take every opportunity presented to them to cheat the law and the sentimentalists cannot find enough avenues of escape to present to them. Rules which are intended to promote leniency cannot fail to achieve leniency, and often as not the beneficiary is one least deserving of favored treatment.

The records in this connection are enlightening. In April 372 first offenders were tried in the Boys' court and in the same month the court tried 205 others who had previous police records. If this record may be regarded as a fair sample, it follows that more than half of the first offenders become more or less confirmed criminals despite the leniency shown them. It is at least arguable that the leniency lavished on youthful criminals is itself a cause for their continued delinquency. A sterner application of the law might discourage them from repeating their offenses.—Chicago Tribune.
